

Message from the Editor

Welcome to the inaugural edition of Development Highlights, a new publication sponsored by the College of Family and Consumer Sciences and the Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni Association of the University of Georgia. In this and future issues, alumni and friends will find information on how contributions to the College are being utilized. In addition, they will learn about others ways in which they can provide financial support. In previous years, it was a tradition to recognize donors to the College annually in the Fall/Winter edition of Highlights. Beginning with this issue, Development Highlights will include this important recognition.

Development Highlights represents an addition to the Highlights published twice each year by the College and the Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni Association. In creating this new publication, the organizations hoped to stress the importance of supporting the College while continuing to provide important updates on activities of the College, its faculty, alumni, and students. As is always the case, please let the Office of Student Services and Alumni Relations know if there is information you think should be included in either Highlights or Development Highlights. After all, these publications are intended to keep you informed and excited about the College of Family and Consumer Sciences at the University of Georgia.

Editor, Highlights

Bowers Named Director of Development

Katrina Little Bowers is no stranger to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences. She is one of our graduates and has returned to the College as Director of Development.

Since graduating with her bachelors in Consumer Economics and Home Management (1984), Katrina has opened her own interior design business, worked as a county extension agent, and earned her Master's degree. Fund raising to support the Lanier County 4-H program for more than 600 youth was a hallmark of Katrina's efforts. Katrina's most recent position was with Complete Carpet & Design Center in Athens where she was an interior designer and account manager.

In announcing Ms. Bowers' appointment, Dean Sharon Nickols said, "The momentum we have achieved in building private support for the College will be maintained under Katrina's leadership. She is a dedicated professional whose experience is well suited to the responsibilities of the position."

Katrina has been frequently recognized as an individual who does excellent work. In 1984,

Honor Roll of Donors, 1995-1996

Each year, the College of Family and Consumer Sciences expresses its gratitude to those individuals who have supported it through their financial gifts. Appreciation is expressed to each individual for financial gifts given July 1, 1995 through June 30, 1996. Your contributions supported projects of the Alumni Association such as the publication of Highlights, Honors Day Luncheon, annual meeting, mementos for graduating seniors, and convocation. In addition, contributions by alumni and friends supported scholarships, the legislative aide program, Leadership FACS, and other special needs. You are invited to join our Honor Roll of Donors for 1996-97 through contributions to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences. When you receive your Annual Fund call and/or card, simply designate your contribution to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences on both the card and the "For" line of your check. We would like to include you in next year's Honor Roll of Donors.

Giving That Feels Good and Makes a Difference

You have probably heard the fund-raising phrase "give until it hurts." I prefer to encourage people to give until it feels good. Some donors may make their contribution out of a sense of guilt, but the vast majority of people I know give to charitable causes because they are generous people who want to make a difference. Others give out of a sense of gratitude for what was done earlier for them. Yet others want to leave a legacy for the future through an endowed fund for a specific purpose. Whatever your motivation, your contribution to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences will make a difference in maintaining excellence in our student and alumni activities, scholarships, and special programs.

Fund-raising for the College of Family and Consumer Sciences is a team effort. The College Alumni Board has created a Fund-raising Committee. Their efforts focus primarily on increasing the number of alumni donors who designate their gifts to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences and encouraging non-donors to invest in their alma mater. The Board of Visitors is helping the College plan for a major fund campaign. A new Director of Development, Katrina Bowers, is working with the College and the UGA Foundation to increase endowed funds in the College and to expand the number of participants in the annual fund campaign. You are an important part of this team effort. Contributors to the College from June 15, 1995 to June 15, 1996 are recognized in the Honor Roll of Donors. Thank you!

We are thrilled to announce two new scholarship funds and two academic support funds. You can read about the Elizabeth Sheerer Scholarship, the Glenn and Helen Burton Scholarship, the Evelyn R. Harris Fund, and the Fan Brooke Academic Support Fund in this issue. It has been an honor and a humbling experience to work with these outstanding individuals in creating the respective funds. Their professional and community contributions are legion, and their legacy will continue to inspire students, faculty, and staff.

If you feel good about giving, and are inspired to make a difference for a particular purpose in the College, please contact me or Katrina Bowers at 706/542-4860. When the UGA annual fund callers contact alumni throughout the year, I hope you will say, "Yes, I want to designate my gift to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences."

Let me end with a special word of appreciation to those who give so generously of your time and financial resources to promote our College. I know you feel good about giving and I know you are making a difference!

"My experience with Leadership FACS was fantastic and I am proud to support other students who can truly learn leadership skills under such wonderful teachers. ... I am certain that this program helped me to become a more effective communicator as well as a leader. I am more than happy to contribute to Leadership FACS."

Mark Sampson, BSFCS, 1995

Highlights on Recent Gifts

Glenn and Helen Burton Feeding the Hungry Scholarship Fund Established

Dr. Glenn Burton (center) pictured with Dean Sharon Y. Nickols, College of Family and Consumer Sciences (left) and Dean Gale Buchanan, College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences

Dr. Glenn Burton and members of his family, including daughter Betsy Burton Fowler (BSHE, '58), have established an endowed scholarship fund to support continuing development of research in human nutrition and new food crops. The fund is known as the Glenn and Helen Burton Feeding the Hungry Scholarship Fund. The fund will provide two scholarships annually to Ph.D. students, one in the Department of Foods and Nutrition and one in the Department of Crop Sciences.

Dr. Glenn Burton is an Alumni Foundation Distinguished Professor in agricultural and environmental sciences and a research geneticist who has developed and released more than 40 new varieties of grains, forage grasses, and turf grasses during his career at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station in Tifton. Mrs. Helen Burton, who died in August 1995, was a registered dietitian, who organized and coordinated the Meals on Wheels program in Tifton, as well as teaching nutrition to pregnant women through the Tift County Health Department.

In recognizing the Burton family at a luncheon announcing the scholarship, Dean Sharon Nickols stated, "Through their lifelong partnership, Dr. Glenn Burton and his wife, Helen, made the world a better place. We can read the headlines and realize how important it will be to continue their work to feed the world's hungry." Suzanne Elbon (M.S., Foods and Nutrition, 1995), a Foods and Nutrition doctoral student, is the first recipient of the Burton Scholarship.

Evelyn R. Harris Fund Created

Mrs. Evelyn Redfern Harris (B.S.H.E., 1938) believes in helping others, especially young people. She has created an Academic Support Fund to support activities to benefit an undergraduate or graduate student each year. Students who receive the Evelyn R. Harris Award will use the funding to attend professional meetings, participate in workshops or seminars, or other professional development activities.

After earning her first degree from Georgia State College for Women in Milledgeville in 1930 and teaching in elementary school, Mrs. Harris became interested in Home Economics. She earned the B.S.H.E. from the University of Georgia in 1938.

Her dedication to educating others to make wise consumer choices and to develop their talents has been evident in her career as a County Agent in Barrow County and twenty years with the Jackson Electric Membership Corporation; as well as through 24 years of active "retirement." At 89 years young, Mrs. Harris maintains an exercise program, teaches Sunday School, participates in the DAR, and promotes the Winder Heritage Centennial Cookbook which she compiled in 1993. Until recently, Mrs. Harris wrote a column "Home Sweet Home" for the Barrow County Eagle newspaper. Mrs. Harris's leadership as a professional and community citizen was recognized by the Barrow County Chamber of Commerce "Meritorious Service Award" in 1989.

Listening to Mrs. Harris reminisce about her career is a history lesson in the modernization of rural households. As a County Agent, Mrs. Harris fostered women's leadership development through income generating activities and civic projects. As Home Economist for the Jackson EMC, she introduced many families to electricity and electrical appliances and the concept of a consumer-owned cooperative. Describing both her career and community service, Mrs. Harris states, "I've got a burning desire to improve things. To get more beauty around us and a better standard of living are worth working for." Mrs. Harris describes herself as "a do-er." The College describes Mrs. Harris as "a do-er who makes a difference."

Mrs. Harris credits her mother as a guiding influence in her life, and for instilling a need for education and moral character as her core values. Dean Sharon Nickols states, "Lifelong learning and lifelong service are keystones of Mrs. Harris's character. She exudes energy. The College is fortunate indeed to have an alumna with such dedication to others. Her legacy will endure through the Evelyn R. Harris Academic Support Fund."

Evelyn Harris was married to E.V. Harris in 1943. Mr. Harris died in 1965. Her son Ernest graduated from the University of Georgia Law School in 1972.

College Announces Two New Funding Opportunities

In recognition of the 50th anniversary of the department of Child and Family Development and the 70th anniversary of the early childhood development program, the College proudly announces two new funding opportunities:

Elizabeth T. Sheerer Graduate Scholarship Fund Will Benefit Child and Family Development

The College is proud to announce the establishment of the Dr. Elizabeth T. (Betty) Sheerer Graduate Scholarship Fund. The scholarship honors Dr. Sheerer's service as head of the CFD department. During the 27 years that she served as head, CFD provided national leadership in pioneering programs to train Head Start teachers, conducted model programs in early childhood development through the McPhaul Center, and initiated the first Ph.D. program in the College. Even though Dr. Sheerer retired, she remains active in the community by contributing her expertise in the area of mental health and personal and family well-being.

The goal is to endow the Elizabeth T. Sheerer Graduate Scholarship Fund at the $25,000 level in the near future. Dr. Sheerer has contributed generously to launching the fund. Information about the fund was mailed to all CFD alumni who received their M.S. or Ph.D. degrees in Child and Family Development, requesting that they honor Dr. Sheerer's career with a contribution to the scholarship fund. Drs. Lynda and James Walters say they were delighted to send their gift because "Betty's contributions to the College were fabulous and the department would not enjoy the stature it has in our field today were it not for Betty."

You do not have to be a CFD graduate to make a gift to the Elizabeth T. Sheerer Graduate Scholarship. Commitment to preparing highly qualified and trained professionals for work with today's children and families qualifies you as a potential donor. In announcing the Elizabeth T. Sheerer Graduate Scholarship Fund, Dean Sharon Nickols said, "This scholarship will be awarded to the best and brightest. Recipients shall have excelled academically, have strong research interests and competencies, and show promise and leadership for the professional field in family and consumer sciences. Nothing less would adequately recognize the outstanding woman for whom this fund is named."

Fan Brooke Academic Support Fund To Benefit McPhaul Center

"Innovative, devoted, inspirational, creative, hard-working," these are the adjectives Dr. Patsy Skeen, Acting Head of the Department of Child and Family Development uses to describe Ms. Fan Brooke. Fan Brooke and her years of visionary leadership of the McPhaul Child Development Program will be recognized through an Academic Support Fund being created by the College of Family and Consumer Sciences.

The Fan Brooke Academic Support Fund will provide funding to support activities that will enhance the teaching of head teachers and assistant teachers at the McPhaul Center. Attendance at seminars, travel to regional and national meetings, and materials for teacher development are some of the things that this fund will be used to provide. The goal is to achieve the UGA Foundation endowment level of $10,000 in the near future.

After serving as an Assistant Professor and Director of the Nursery School at UGA from 1952 to 1956, Ms. Brooke was employed in Iowa, Wisconsin, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. She returned to UGA in 1963 and retired in 1984, for a total of 25 years of outstanding leadership at the McPhaul Center and in the CFD Department. Ms. Brooke was a pioneer in programs to prevent child abuse, Head Start teacher training, curriculum for young children, and program evaluation of community day care centers.

Contributions to either the Sheerer or Brooke fund should be sent to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences, 224 Dawson Hall, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602-3622. Make your check payable to the UGA Foundation, and designate the appropriate fund on the "for" line.

If you made a pledge
during the 1996
Phonathon, don't forget to send in your check!

Donor $$$ at Work

Lori Starling (left) of Harris County received the Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni Association Scholarship. Lori will major in nutrition science beginning in Fall, 1996. The Alumni Association Scholarship is presented to an outstanding 4-H participant planning to major in the College of Family and Consumer Sciences. Lori has worked extensively with Winky Parker (BSHE, 1966). Dr. Lynn Hogan (right), Director of Student Services and Alumni Relations for the College, presented the scholarship to Lori during a recent 4-H state meeting held at Wesleyan College in Macon. The College is proud to welcome Lori and thanks its alumni and friends for sponsoring this scholarship program.

Bowers (Continued)

she received the College's Outstanding Senior Award. Both the Georgia Association of Extension Family and Consumer Sciences and the Extension 4-H Agents awarded her Young Professional Awards in 1988. In 1989, Epsilon Sigma Phi awarded her its statewide Young Professional Award.

The Director of Development is responsible for expanding the number of donors to the College and the amount given. The Director works jointly with the College and the UGA Foundation. Ms. Bowers replaces Ms. Gena Tyler who resigned the position to become a full-time Mommy to her son Jordan.

Deferred financial gifts to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences leave a legacy to benefit students and faculty. With a deferred gift, you give today, but the College will benefit some years later. Gifts may vary in size from small bequests to million dollar trusts.

There are two kinds of Deferred Gifts: (1) Life income gifts and (2) Estate gifts. Life income gifts provide either an income or the use of some asset for the duration of your life. Estate gifts are normally provided for in your Will or in the final distribution of your estate.

Life Income Gifts

Life income gifts can be created with cash, securities, and/or real estate. The asset is given to the University of Georgia Foundation to benefit the College of Family and Consumer Sciences, but you retain the right to receive income from those assets for as long as you live. At your death or the death of the last remaining beneficiary, the University of Georgia Foundation receives the remaining principal. Life income gifts may be pooled income funds or charitable remainder trusts.

Pooled Income Funds - Pooled income funds allow you to give away assets, such as stocks or bank savings, while keeping the right to receive the interest and/or dividend income. The University may use the remaining principal only after your death and the death of one surviving beneficiary if one is designated.

Typical gifts range from $10,000 to $250,000. Advantages of a pooled income fund gift are:

1. You retain income for life often earning about double the quarterly income you were receiving.
2. You avoid capital gains taxes on the sale of appreciated securities.
3. You remove all or most of the assets donated from your estate, thereby reducing potential estate taxes.
4. You receive an income tax deduction based upon your age.

Charitable Remainder Trusts - There are a variety of charitable trusts which can be created, usually with assets worth $250,000 or more. The charitable remainder trust provides lifetime benefits to you, the donor, and then to the College. You also have the benefits of tax deductions or reductions listed above.

Estate Gifts

Estate gifts may be made through a bequest in your Will, through a testamentary trust created by provisions in your Will, a life insurance policy, or a retirement plan.

Bequests (Gifts by Will) - A bequest is a gift made through provisions specified in your will. There are three types of bequests that can be made - a specific, residual, or contingent bequest.

A specific bequest - You leave a specific amount of money, a specific asset, or a specific percentage of your estate to the University of Georgia Foundation for the benefit of the College of Family & Consumer Sciences.

A residual bequest - Your bequest goes to the University of Georgia Foundation for the benefit of the College of Family and Consumer Sciences only after all debts, expenses, taxes, and other bequests have been paid.

A contingent bequest - A contingency bequest takes effect if the primary beneficiary dies or otherwise loses rights as a beneficiary. Example: If my child should predecease me then I leave my estate to the University of Georgia Foundation for the benefit of the College of Family and Consumer Sciences.

Testamentary Trusts - Your Will may direct that a portion of your estate will go to a pooled income fund or a charitable remainder trust. The pooled income fund or charitable remainder trust will then pay life income to a named beneficiary. After the beneficiary's death, the UGA Foundation will receive any remaining funds for the benefit of the College.

Paid-up Life Insurance Policy - You can donate a paid-up life insurance policy that you currently own. It is important to designate the University of Georgia Foundation as the owner and beneficiary of the life insurance policy with the proceeds benefiting the College of Family and Consumer Sciences.

How Do I Make a Gift?

As you consider your options, please let us know if you have questions. We would be happy to talk with you about how you can best achieve your charitable objectives through a gift to the College. We may be able to suggest ideas that meet your needs and the needs of the College. The UGA Foundation has Planned Giving Staff available to review draft bequest language with your attorney. Mistakes in language can be costly to the College and make it difficult to fulfill your wishes.

Also, the University periodically offers deferred giving seminars at various locations throughout the country. A tentative schedule of upcoming seminars is presented on page 14 of this newsletter. Please contact the University Foundation at (706) 542-6677 for details.

If you include us in your will, please tell us. We would like to thank you and recognize you as a member of the Heritage Society. We will keep the information you share with us confidential. If you prefer your gift to remain anonymous, we will honor your request.

Sponsors Help Make South Campus Tailgate '96 a Success

On September 21, over 700 alumni and friends of the Colleges of Family and Consumer Sciences and Agricultural and Environmental Sciences enjoyed the second annual Tailgate event. South Campus Tailgate '96 would not have been possible without its numerous sponsors. The Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni Association wishes to thank the following organizations for their generous financial contributions:

Gold ($1,000 or more Contribution)

Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation
Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fox, Jr.
Georgia Agribusiness Council
Georgia Farm Bureau
Georgia Poultry Federation
Gold Kist Inc.

Silver ($500 to $999 Contribution)

Georgia Cattlemen Association
Georgia Commercial Flower Growers Association
Georgia Cotton Commission
Georgia Pork Producers Association
North Georgia Farm Credit
Oglethorpe Power Corporation

Bronze ($100 to $499 Contribution)

Ag Hill Council
Bullock Fertilizer
Fieldale Farms
Frito-Lay, Inc.
Georgia Egg Commission
Georgia State Fair

Moultrie Farm Center

Outside sponsorship allowed alumni and friends to enjoy the day for the price of lunch.

Highlights on the Alumni Association's Fund-Raising Committee

Last year, one of the actions taken by the Board of Directors of the Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni Association was the formation of a Fund-Raising Committee to assist the Director of Development in increasing contributions to the College.

In its brief history, the group has sponsored a letter writing campaign and an Atlanta-Area Phonathon. Each activity was successful in that it increased alumni awareness of activities in the College and managed to increase giving.

As you can see by the pictures below, raising money can be fun as well as rewarding. If you would be interested in helping this important task, please contact Claudia Noell, Vice President-Finance, at (706) 613-3640.

At right, a group of alumni celebrate the last night of the phonathon. Over four nights, alumni in the Atlanta area who had not contributed to the University were called and asked to make a contribution to the College. The calls raised over $2,800 in pledges.

Letter from the Fund-Raising Committee Chair-Claudia Noell (BSHE '64)

Dear Family and Consumer Sciences Alumni and Friends:

As Chair of the Fund Raising Committee, I want to share with you an opportunity to contribute to the College of Family and Consumer Sciences. Designated gifts to our college are so important in our effort to be on the leading edge in the field of Family and Consumer Sciences. Dean Sharon Nickols is providing outstanding leadership to our College. Also, the faculty and staff are terrific. Private designated gifts are essential to our efforts to continue to grow in stature.

Stop and think about how much of what you learned as a student in our college are now the life skills you use everyday. Please consider a designated gift to your college and reinvest in its future.

I have made my own personal financial commitment to our college, and I hope you will join me. Each gift continues our pursuit of excellence.
